About me:

I am a motivated fresher and frontend-focused MERN stack developer with solid knowledge of JavaScript, React, HTML, and CSS, complemented by backend familiarity with Node.js, Express, and MongoDB. Through academic projects and self-driven learning, I have gained practical experience in building full-stack web applications, emphasizing responsive and user-friendly frontend interfaces.

I am passionate about frontend development and committed to writing clean, efficient, and maintainable code. Keeping pace with industry demands, I am eager to expand my skill set by learning TypeScript and Next.js, aiming to deliver modern, scalable solutions.

As a fast learner with a strong work ethic, I am enthusiastic about contributing to a dynamic development team while continuously growing my technical expertise.
